A BASE BALL SENSATION.

During the game played recently at Philadelphia between the Athletics and Detroit, Cobb, the Tiger's phenomenal outfielder, assaulted a spectator and was ordered from the field. Following Cobb's suspension, the entire Detroit team walked off the diamond and Jennings was forced won by a score of 20 to 2.

Cobb's rash act, although the result of merciless roasts from the fans, was violently hissed. Jennings tried hard to keep him in the game by the payment of a stiff fine on the spot. When the enspension was insisted upon by the umpire, loudly backed up by the crowd, the entire Detroit contingent refused to play and walked off the field smid derisive hoots.

Very bad seeling between both teams prevailed throughout the game, and the walk-over for the home team did not improve matters. China Press.

The Portuguese Government has decided to sell a sufficient, amount of the furniture and valuables of the royal palaces to realise £1,000,000, which sum was advanced to the late King Carlos. The property is recognised as belonging to King Mannel and his mother, and the property not wild will be returned to them The property includes the Crown jewels valued at £800,000, which are kept in the Palace Necessidades, and the Dem Miguel's jewels, which are deposited in the Bank of Portugal, valued at £500,000.

But since Syndiculism is a creed as well as a war-cry, it as well to treat it seriously, and consider its aim and significance. is a symptom of something besides mere labour "unrest," which is itself largely due to the flux of the old economic and political conceptions. The nineteenth century opened under the influence of an extreme and even an aggravated Individualism which grew with the growth and strengthen. ed with the strengh of the great industrial movement. By the time that Britain had become the workshop of the world and the model for all other nations anxious to grow rich, both movements had reached their zenith But the individualist system suited Capital better than Labour, which began to cast about for means whereby it could appropriate a larger portion of the profits of industry and trade. It has been seeking ever since, and endenvouring to find solutions in some form of Socialism or Collective ism. Syndicalism is a reaction against. the doctrines which shave captivated so many members of the proletarint in all countries.

Instead of asking Parliament to redress his grievances he proposes to redress them himself, with the assistance of his colleagues. With the results damaged. of the recent coal strike before us we need not ask how far he is likely to succeed. The point to which Mr BALFOUR a ldresses himself is how for his success, even if he could attain it without revolution, would really be desirable. And of this, as we might expect, Mr BALFOUR is entirely sceptical. He admits that the desire of the workers to control the work is not illegitimate; but he points out that it is impracticable. By what system of Jatin in Topingail Lation (which things, by the way, they dislike) could the syndicated workmen secure the brains and organising enpacity on which the success of an instant, at 10 a.m." industry depends? And after all, it is of small value to devise means for n more equable distribution of profits (an excellent thing in itself) if there are no profits to distribute. AT THE MAGISTRACY.

A CURLOUS DUMPING CASE.

A curious case of dumping came before Mr. A. E. Irving at the Magistracy this morning. A Chinese constable caught a man in the act of dumping in a street Congregational church at Upper Tooting, at West Point and took him to the police station. The corpse was left outside the station door and while the first coolie was being charged inside, another coolin picked it up and took it to the Disponsary. where he received the usual reward of There he left his true name and address, and this led to his arrest. This the coolie urged in his defence, and stated that he saw outside the station a notice of the roward. The case was remanded till Saturday in order that the police might obtain further evidence.

A DES VOUL HOAD HOW. Because he had assisted an Indian constable to arrest a woman in Des Vocux Road Central who was violent and was followed by a disorderly crowd, one of the woman's friends, a youthful Chinese, throw a stone at him. A youth from the Diocesan Boys: School said ha was in'a tram when he saw the crowd, and heard people calling upon others to the British Sovereignty throughout the stone the policeman. Thinking there would be a serious disturbance he left the train and fetched three Indian constables from near the Central Market, and seeing what he had done some Chinose called to others to stone him, as well as the complainant. Recalled, the complainant said he escaped from the crowd by going in one end of Sincere's Store and but by the other. Defendant was fined $10, or fourteen days.

It seems that in cities like Canton there is growing up against this sort of thing a public opinion, that makes more and more difficult, and so in the towns it is being put down. On the other hand, in the country, where such public feeling does not exist, and where new ideas do not rapidly permeate, things go on as they did of old. Therefore, the police are ordered to keep a sharp lookout on all sides, and especially supon the passage boats, for the police are determined to put down the thing. BRITISH ENGINEERING IN CHINA.

We have received an advance proof of a pamphlet setting forth the origin and purpose of the British Engineers' Association, which was incorporated on April 26 of this. year. The organisation of this Association, it is stated, was undertaken by twenty-two of the best known engineering firms in Great Britain. The aim of this Association is not to serve the interests of any individual, tirm or clique of firms, or to carry or trade in any way, but to establish itself as a great national organisation for the promotion on the broadest lives of the overseas interests of the British engineering industry. Its intention is to employ the great collective influence vested in the engineering industry to encourage the British Government, financial organisstions, shipping companies, merchants and others to promote the interests of British engineering throughout the world in the same manner as the interests of foreign especially in there is any mapicion, that competitors are promoted by their Governthey are taking them off to sell them to ments and other bodies. AT THE MAGISTRACY.

A CURIOUS DUMPING CASE

A curious case of dumping came before Mr. A. E. Irving at the Megistracy this morning. A Chinese constable caught a man in the act of dumping in a street at West Point and took him to the police station door and while the first coolie was being charged inside, another cuche picked it up and took it to the Dispensary, where he received the usual reward of $1. There he left his true name and address, and this led to his arrest. This the coolie urged in his defence, and he stated that he saw outside the station a police might obtain further evidence.

Because he had assisted an Indian honour of the birthday of His Most constable to arrest a woman in Des Vœux Road Central who was violent and was followed by a disorderly growd, one nose, threw a stone at him. A youth from the Diocesan Boys: School said he was in a tram when he saw the crowd, and heard people calling upon others to stone the policeman. Thinking there would be a serious disturbance he left the tram and letched three Indian constables from near the Central Market, and seeing what he had done some Chinese called to others to stone him, as well as the complainant. Recalled, the complainant said he escaped from the crowd by going in one end of Sincere's Store and but by the other. Defendant was

SUPREME COURT.

An Insurance Claim.

Before the Chief Justice (the Hon. M Bees Davies K. C.) a case, which will evidently occupy some time, came up for hearing.

It was one in which a special jury was convened and in which the Wa Cheong Loung Kee firm claimed from the Prossian National Insurance Co. of Stettin, the sum of $22,500, money due on three policies of insurance in respect of loss or damage to goods by a fire which occurred on April 13,

The following jury was empannelled: -W. Dickson, C. S. Gubbay, H. W. Bird, F. W. Melchers, R. M. Dyer, G. Hogg and J. O. Hughes.

Mr Eldon Potter, instructed by Mr Davidson, appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr Pollock, K. O. with him the Attorney-Goneral Hon. Mr C. G. Alabaster, instructed by Mr Shenton, of Deacon, Looker and Descon, for the defendants.

Mr Putter, before setting out the facts of the case made an application for leave to make two amendments in his reply. The amendments affected only a -legal point and did not cone in the facts of the case. After lengthy argument, however His Lordship refused to allow the amendments.

Mr Potter, in outlining his case, said, it plaintiffs by the defendants under three policies of fire insurance. The plaintiffs in the case were merchants who, up to April POR AFTERNOON WEAR. (Reuter's Service to the China Mail.) 12 last, carried on business at No. 43 Wing Lok St. Defendants were the Prussiar Reuter's correspondent at Constan. National Insurance Co., whose head office SCARVES was at Status; and who also carried on an insurance business hers. Proceeding, Mr Potter said :- Before gring into the facte of the case I will explain to you the pleadings. I do not intend to read the pleadings to you throughout, because jury pleadings which are based on a mass of legal phrascology, the juryment are just as wise as before. The plaintiffs' cision is quite simple, namely that three policies of insurance were issued by the defendants to the plaintiffs and that fact admitted and that on a cortiandad namely April 12, 1911/s free broke out and burnt down the shop and the goods therein. That is also sumitted, we say that because our goods were burnt, we are entitled to
